Statewide events recognize success, contributions of workers with disabilities

MONTGOMERY – The Alabama Governor’s Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities, a program of the Alabama Department of Rehabilitation Services (ADRS), will have 14 special events around the state as part of the October observance of National Disability Employment Awareness Month (NDEAM).

The events will recognize and celebrate the successes and contributions of individuals with disabilities in the workforce and honor businesses that provide opportunities for successful employment for people with disabilities. The theme for this year is “Inclusion Drives Innovation.”

“People with disabilities are some of the most innovative individuals you will ever meet,” said Leslie Dawson, ADRS administrator for business relations. “They are solution-driven, and their solutions bring about innovative products and services and more efficient ways of doing their jobs. When you combine this drive with their skills, talents and abilities, it is easy to see how ‘Inclusion Drives Innovation’ in all aspects of business.”

This year, awards will be presented in 12 different categories, saluting the accomplishments of employers, community partners, youth, educators, advocates, the news media, and local professionals. In total, 149 awards will be presented.
at events throughout the state, with local winners competing for statewide recognition at a special event at the Capitol on Dec. 7.

Former Gov. Jim Folsom created the Alabama Governor’s Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities in the late 1940s as a response to veterans with disabilities who returned home and were unable to find work. Since then, many individuals with disabilities – veterans as well as civilians – have benefitted from Governor’s Committee activities. The committee coordinates a network of local volunteer groups throughout the state and works closely with ADRS staff to develop employment opportunities and raise awareness of the needs and rights of Alabamians with disabilities.

In fiscal year 2016, the department’s Vocational Rehabilitation Service division provided services to 30,292 teens and adults with disabilities, assisting 4,607 of those in becoming successfully employed. Also in FY16, READI-Net, the department’s business relations program, provided 7,148 no-cost services to 1,190 employers.

The mission of ADRS is to enable Alabama’s children and adults with disabilities to achieve their maximum potential.

Proclamation
By the Governor of Alabama

WHEREAS, people with disabilities represent the largest minority in our state and nation and include every race, color, creed, national origin, age and gender reflecting the diversity of our state’s workforce; and

WHEREAS, Alabamians with disabilities continue to make significant contributions to the economy of this state; and

WHEREAS, Alabamians with disabilities have performed successfully at every level of business and government, demonstrating their ability to play an integral role in our society; and

WHEREAS, various state programs promote greater public understanding and awareness of people with disabilities and their desire to have full access to places of public accommodation; and

WHEREAS, Alabamians with disabilities have proven themselves to be productive, contributing workers, whose contributions far exceed the cost of their rehabilitation; and

WHEREAS, employers statewide have recognized the worth and value of employees with disabilities; and

WHEREAS, the support and cooperation of all people are needed to reduce the attitudinal and physical barriers that hinder full acceptance of people with disabilities and their rightful place in employment:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Kay Ivey, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby proclaim October 2017, as

DISABILITY EMPLOYMENT AWARENESS MONTH
With the theme of Inclusion Drives Innovation

in the State of Alabama.

Given Under My Hand and the Great Seal of the Office of the Governor at the State Capitol in the City of Montgomery on the 29th day of October 2017.
